Homework Assignment 10
Due in GeorgiaVIEW on Monday, October 8 by 9:00 a.m. (MW classes) or 5:00 p.m. (TR classes).

Choose 15 sentences from a magazine article, book, other class textbook, or newspaper article that include commas, semicolons, and/or colons. Do not use your ENGL 0099 textbook.

Type the sentences you’ve chosen in a Microsoft Word document and submit it as an attachment in GeorgiaVIEW. Explain—applying what you’ve learned in class about using commas, semicolons, and colons—why the sentence has the punctuation it does (how the punctuation was used to join two clauses, if they are weak or strong clauses, or phrases, etc.). If you find something that you think is incorrect in any of the sentences you copy, tell me why you think it’s incorrect.

For example: They had it on good authority that Barrett had sailed from New York on July 3, yet nearly four weeks later there had been no sign of her.

Sentences are joined with a comma and a conjunction (yet). They are both strong clauses.

Notes about assignment: Sentences MUST contain at least one comma, semicolon, or colon. The ending punctuation marks (periods, question marks, exclamation points) do not count!
